THE BLOOMFIELD CITIZEN.

VOL. IV. NO. 37. WHOLE NO. 193.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., SATURDAY, JANUARY 1, 1887.

TWO DOLLARS PER YEAR.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

By Our Regular and Casual Reporters and Correspondents.

A Grateful Acknowledgment.

The Bloomfield Orphan Asylum Society, Auxiliary to the Newark Orphan Asylum Association, gratefully acknowledge the following donations toward the Orphan's Christmas dinner, and Xmas Tree:

Mr. E. E. Heckel & Sons, 1 turkey; from friends of the children, 2 turkeys; Mr. Post, 1 pr. chickens; John Jaeger, 1 fresh ham; A. Baker, basket of apples; Charles Ackers, 6 cans of tomatoes; C. W. Martin, 1 pkgs. cranberries; W. S. Lockwood, 1 bag flour; E. T. Cadmus, 1 pkgs. of cakes; Mr. Wm. A. Baldwin, onions and apples; Mr. Gibson, cake and pie; Harris Bros., 1 large box of pack the goods in; A. Lloyd, a splendid large fruit cake, made specially for the little ones, handsomely iced and decorated, which ornamented the centre of the Christmas dinner table; right royal it looked! It made the children's eyes sparkle with pleasure and their tongues were loud in exclamations of delight. It was divided among the children for their tea, and helped largely to make a day of perfect enjoyment in their sad lives.

Money was received toward the Christmas Tree as follows:

Bloomfield Aux. Society $6.05, Charles Kingsley Farrington 50 cents, Se-wa Farrington 50 cents, W. B. Corby $2.00, Mr. Gish $2.00, Mrs. Bano $1.00, Mrs. Charles Askers 50 cents, Geo. Wood 25 cents, Friend 10 cents, Mrs. Wichman 25 cents. Mr. Wm. Baldwin forwarded the box to the "Home" in his usual generous way.

Young People's Evening at the First Church.

A very successful entertainment was given by the Young People in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church on Monday evening. In elaborateness of preparation, smoothness of execution, and general interest it was much superior to the ordinary efforts of the past. The production of so difficult a bit of acting as Mr. W. D. Howells' "Sleeping Car," requires extensive arrangements of scenery, with not a little mental labor, tact, and histrionic ability.

The platform arranged along the east side of the room contained a complete representation of a sleeping car with berths for the passengers, and a cosy corner for the conductor. The stage was blackened, lamps lighted, and ice-water furnished at a moment's notice. Even the name of the car appeared in beautiful white letters in various appropriate positions.

If Mr. Howells excels in one thing more than humor, it is in his delicate sense of humor, and the delineation of the frailties of female character. In "The Sleeping Car" he is at his best. The loquacity which respects neither times nor the necessities of others is vividly portrayed. A glimpse is also given of that feminine intuition which jumps at conclusions without regard to logic or the teachings of experience. A returning Californian is immediately recognized as a long-lost brother while his chivalrous defence of the gentler sex is taken as an affection of strangeness. Mrs. E. Walter Morris sustained with credit the part of the anxious and expectant mother, Miss Emma Close that of the matter-of-fact aunt. Mr. Frank Benson was good naturedly ferocious, and altogether chivalrous as the returning Californian. Mr. Chas. Keyes showed his railroad training in the part of coo'd porter, while Mr. Orrie Dodd, as husband; Mr. Fred Bourne as the long-lost brother, and Mr. William G. Langstroth, as conductor, were each good in his place.

The audience was unusually large, completely filling the room. Among those present were many of the older members of the congregation. After the performance an informal sociable was held, at which cake and coffee were served.

A Select Reception.

The doors of the spacious residence of Willard Richards on Franklin Hill were thrown open on Tuesday evening for the reception of members of "The Sociable" lately organized for the entertainment of both the younger and older members of the community. About one hundred persons were present from all portions of the village. Music was furnished by Mr. Josler and entertainment by Allen, of Newark.

Dancing began at 8.30 P. M. and continued until 1 A. M. In the large parlors and the adjoining hall six sets formed upon the floor at the same time.

The stiffness of the conventional social was laid aside, and unusual good feeling prevailed. Some of the faces appeared among the guests of those whose presence has graced the meetings of the past, while not a few of the later debutantes in society were seen in the groups which gathered in the halls or the adjoining rooms.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Oakes and Miss Georgia Oakes, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob F. Randolph, Dr. and Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Cleveland, Dr. and Mrs. Sullivan, Mr. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Boyes and Miss Kate Boyes, Mr. and Mrs. L. Sherwood and Miss H. Bert and Miss Lizette Ailing, Mr. and Mrs. Morris, and Miss Jennie Morris, Mr. Darwin and Miss Darwin, Mr. McIntosh and Miss McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Farrand, Mr. Henry B. Sheldon, Jr. and Miss Sheldon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Baldwin, Mr. Wm. A. Baldwin, Miss May Norris, Mr. Wright Stout, Misses Jennie and Clara Ward, the Misses Close, Mr. Farrington, the Misses Puffer, Mr. Frank Benson, Mr. C. M. Peele, and Miss Peele, Mr. and Mrs.

A. B. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Bourne, Dr. J. E. Stubbart, Mr. J. W. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Richards, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Moore.

Christmas Celebration.

The Hope Sunday school held their celebration on Christmas Eve. The room was handsomely decorated with greens; a large tree occupying the southwest corner trimmed with tinsel and pretty things, and loaded with presents.

Mr. Theron Bedford kindly furnished entertainment for the children, exhibiting numerous views with his magic lantern, in which the scholars took great delight. At 8 P. M. Santa Claus arrived, and the distribution of gifts began. Something was provided for each of the scholars, and teachers, superintendents and assistant superintendents were not forgotten.

The night was dark and stormy, but good cheer abounded, and the hearts of all were made glad.

Christmas carols were sung at intervals by the school.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Quietly, perhaps slowly, yet we trust surely, is the work of organization of the Y. M. C. A. being perfected. The Association has come to stay, hence it is needful that the foundation stones be carefully and wisely laid.

Two business meetings of the Association have been held, at which a constitution has been adopted, fifteen directors elected. Another business meeting will be held immediately following the Week of Prayer, at which meeting there will be reports of the work thus far, and addresses from earnest Christian workers from other parts of the State.

A mass meeting was held on the evening of Dec. 17th, at the Westminster Presbyterian Church. This meeting was very largely attended, and the results were in every way encouraging. Very able addresses were delivered by the Rev. Dr. Storrs of Orange, Dr. Stickley, also of Orange, Mr. McBurney, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of New York, and the Rev. Mr. May of this town. Rev. Dr. Kennedy occupied a seat on the platform and at the opening of the meeting offered an earnest and very sweet and touching prayer for the blessing of God upon the organization. At the close of the address a general and cordial invitation was extended to all in the house to adjourn to the parlors of the church, where partake of refreshments very kindly provided by a committee of ladies from the different churches.

The board of directors have met from week to week, have elected officers of the Association, and adopted by-laws. Some of the standing committees have already been appointed, and others will follow, of which due notice will be given. A house committee is now at work seeking a suitable location for Association Rooms.

This is a matter of great importance and needs careful consideration.

The following information may be of interest to those who contemplate becoming members of the Association: Annual dues for active membership, $2; associate membership, $2; sustaining membership, $10; life membership, $100.

Will It be Supported?

A Christian Association: Can it be supported? Under this caption in a recent issue "A Member" advances certain arguments tending to show that it can. The question is wrongly put. It should be, Will it be supported? It can be, but will it? The answer to this can only be known with certainty from the result of a trial. But the fair probabilities of success or failure may be forecast by fairly examining the known facts as they exist here. It is no argument to say that because the Y. M. C. A. flourishes elsewhere therefore it will here, for that is not a necessary conclusion from the premises. Nor will it do to say that because thousands of dollars are raised for the purposes of extinguishing fires or building a club-house, therefore money will be forthcoming for the Y. M. C. A., for the club and truck house appeal to a different class and different motives for their support.

Nor will it do to urge that because money is forthcoming for other purposes therefore it should be for this, for we must deal with "will be's" not "should be's."

Now let me suggest to our friends of the Y. M. C. A. certain things that they must demonstrate before they will succeed in making large inroads upon the wealth of our conservative town.

1st. They must show that there is a class to be reached by the agency of the Y. M. C. A., that can be reached by no existing agency so well. And it will not do to deal in glittering generalities such as "the young men of the town" and like expressions, but come down to facts.

2d. That the good to be accomplished will be proportionate to the cost. And it will not do to say that the saving of one man's soul is worth any cost, for it is by expending $1,000 in one way you can save ten souls, and in another way one, it is manifestly better to save the ten.

3d. Admitting the need and the profit of such a venture, have we men adapted to conduct it? And right here the programme will be of immense use in acquainting the public with the methods to be used and their probable success, and the ideas of the promoters. For there are as many ways of conducting a Christian Association as there are of conducting any business venture, and some lead to success and many to failure.

If the promoters of the Y. M. C. A. succeed in showing, by hard facts, that there is a class to be reached by an agency, that the effort to reach them will succeed at a reasonable cost, and that the proper men are at the helm, the vast preponderance of probability lies in favor of its success. If they fail to demonstrate one or all of these things, they will probably fail. What has "A Member" to say?

Monday evening, Dec. 27th, 1886, the following officers were elected: President, Edwin B. Goodall; Secretary, W. Lou Doremus; Treasurer, John B. Livermore.

Daily vs. Spragg.

On Friday last week the suit of Mary Daily against Arthur Spragg, both of this town, was tried in the Circuit Court, at Newark, and resulted in a verdict for Mrs. Daily, her damages being assessed at $200.

The action was brought against Spragg for malicious prosecution, in causing the arrest of Mrs. Daily on a charge of larceny. The Grand Jury having failed to indict, Mrs. Daily brought this action to establish affirmatively her innocence of the charge, which the verdict in her favor does most completely.

It is to be hoped that this result may have the effect of lessening the number of arrests upon trivial or trumped up charges.
